North. History.

John North of Devonshire England was a loyalist, and lost his life during the period of the revolution which resulted in the establishment of the Commonwealth.

His large property was confiscated during the Protectorate of Oliver Cromwell, and his family scattered abroad.

William went to Salisbury, Mass, thence to Nantucket.

Leionel came to Boston.

Richard went to New Jersey.

Francis went to Portugal.

The family of ~~De~~ North, afterwards called North came from Normandy 1066.A.D. with William the Conqueror.

The North family lived in the county of Devonshire in the reign of Henry III. and the name of North was quite numerous at that time and place.

In Sept 1881. a letter was addressed to John Francis North Esq, North House, Washfield, Tiverton, Devon England, respecting North genealogy.

The following reply was received.

Fork Cottage, South Warford, Heavertrie, Exeter, Devon. Oct. 3. 1881.
George Frederick Worth Esq.

Dear Sir:

Your letter to
my late husband has been forwarded to me, as I regret to inform you his death occurred about three years ago.
I enclose you a card to his memory.
His son Reginald then came into all the Worth Estate. But he did not survive his father very long. He died in March 1880. Not leaving any family the property went to his sister, who with her husband and children assumed the name of Worth.

I do not think there ever was a correct genealogical pedigree kept. I enclose you an extract from Doomsday Book which my son gave me. I also send you a photo of the Worth home which I had taken during my residence there. Doubtless you will like to have it. I am writing in great haste for this mail. Sincerely yours
Isabella Worth.

Extract from Domesday Book.

Washfield is so called from its watered meadows. The river frequently flowing and washing the low lands.

Washfield was held by William de Abbott who succeeded Henry de Abbott. It came afterwards the inheritance of the family of Worth, and hath continued in that family name and is now the inheritance of Worth of Worth Esq.

Worth within the parish of Washfield seated upon rising ground westward upon the river Lee and about one mile from Tiverton and hath long continued in the hands of Worth also written De la Worth. Richard De la Worth held it in whom successively followed sixteen generations. The last was John Francis Worth of Devonshire born 1802. This ancient family still flourish on their hereditary estate.

Coat of Arms. Ermine an eagle displayed with two necks sable beak and leg red.
Crest. An arm erect habited and gloved, ermine, holding an eagle's leg couped at the thigh. Or.

"Worth in Washfield is one of the three places in Devon which still remain the possession and residence of families of the same name, the Worths having been seated there since the 13th century.

R. N. "Worths Hist of Devonshire. 96. 186.

William Worth, first of the name who settled in Nantucket, Mass, was Clerk of the Court 1678. He was Justice of the Peace many years, and performed numerous marriage ceremonies. He married Sarah, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Hopcut Macy - which was the first marriage among the white settlers. His Will was probated in Nantucket Nov. 7. 1724.

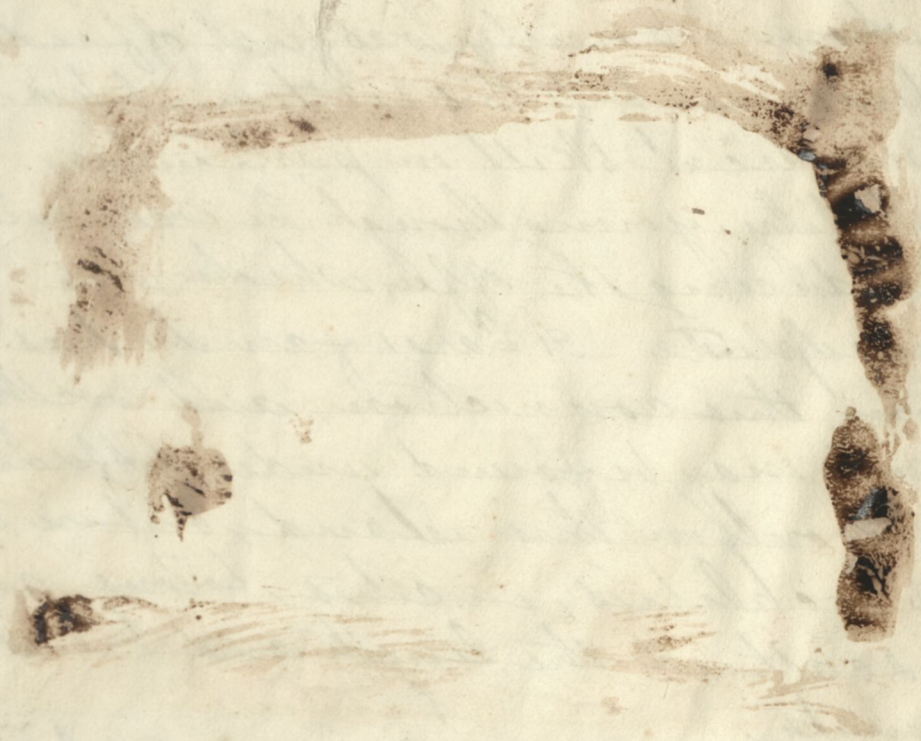

"Worth in Washfield is one of the places in Devon which still ^{remain} ~~retain~~ the possession and residence of families of the same name, the Worths having been seated there since the Thirteenth century."

Worth's History of Devonshire. 1886

Extract from Benjamin Franklin Folger's genealogical records.

"The first marriage among the English settlers on Nantucket Island was that of William Worth and Sarah, daughter of Thomas ~~Worth~~ Macy. She was one of the most gifted and estimable young women of that day. He was an adventurer from the mother-country to whom a bounty was first offered as an inducement to his settlement here.
His great nautical skill in particular,
and his ability, young though he was, in general, inducing the offer, which was finally accepted. A large family has come from this connection, and worthy descendants may be found under different names, not only on this island, but in a variety of localities, in cities, towns, and villages, scattered the length and breadth of our country.

In 1663 he commenced a journal which extended to 1715. He recorded his own marriage with his own hand, and as a Justice of the Peace he connected many couples which he made records.
He ~~was born~~ died 12.4.1723.

Gardiner.

Lion Gardiner a young Englishman who was well skilled in Civil Engineering joined the army of W^m of Orange, and was in Holland with the Pilgrims who not sailed to America. He was persuaded to join the company organized by Lord Brooke and Lord Say and Seal to emigrate to their colony at the mouth of the Connecticut River. He left Holland in July 1635 with his wife and French servant. Just before his departure he had married Mary Williamson of Woerden of Holland. The vessel in which he embarked was of 25 tons burthen, and after a long four months voyage across the Atlantic, reached Boston Nov. 28 1635, and shortly afterwards sailed to the Connecticut River where he assisted in founding Saybrook. He lived here from 1635 to 1639 and was of great value to the Colonists, both on account of his knowledge of civil engineering and on account of his military skill in the Pequot war.

An Indian Sachem Wymanauk conveyed to him an island of twenty four hundred acres, which he afterwards named Gardiner Island.

Gov. Dongan confirmed his title and elevated him a Lordship and the island to a Manor. Here he lived from 1639 to 1653 when he moved to East Hampton L. I. where he died in 1663. Gov. Winthrop, Gen
Mason and Sir Richard Saltonstall speak highly of Lord Gardiner.

Winslow.

On the east bank of the Severn stands the ancient city of Worcester.

Four miles to the south on its eastern bank is the parish of Kempsey, with its hamlet of Draycot, south of the Parish Church.

Here in 1400 A.D. lived John Winslow who married Agnes fourth daughter of John Throckmorton of Coughton, Warwickshire.

Kenelm, grandson of John, removed to Worcester, where he died in 1607.

He owned Newport Place, also Clivenham, a large place near Worcester.

Edward, only son of Kenelm, married Eleanor Pelham, daughter of Sir Robert Pelham of Droghda 1st.

2nd Magdalene Olyver.

Kenelm, son of Edward and Magdalene was one of the original twenty six proprietors of Freetown, Mass. The lot number twenty four has descended through successive generations for 200 years. He is styled joiner, also planter. Came to Plymouth in the Mayflower in 1629, and joined the Pilgrims.

1599 Keneelm¹ Winslow, son Edward & Magdalene¹ mid 1672
 1598 Eleanor (Newton) wid John Adams 1634 1681.
 1635 Keneelm², born at Plymouth, died near Harwich, Mass. The place is now called Winslow's Mills. In 1679. he was engaged with thirty partners in the purchase of the section in Mass, now known as Rochester (Bristol Co).
 He secured near Yarmouth a good water privilege, which he sold in 1699
 to his son Keneelm. It is now (1858)
 owned by his great, great grandson, W^m Winslow of West Brewster. He mid Murey Warden of Yarmouth. Next ¹⁶⁶⁷ 1688

Macy.

Thomas Macy, one of the first settlers in Salisbury, New England, probably left there in 1660. The new town was called Amherstbury. He was the first clerk in the "new town". His book of records, simply a pamphlet of paper, without cover is yet in the clerk's office. He was a good person, and evidently a man of cultivation.

Thomas Macy, tradition states, left Amherstbury and settled in Nantucket, owing to disagreement concerning treatment of Quakers. He occupied important positions in Nantucket, and left a large posterity there.

Double Headed Eagle.

"At the palace of Eysuk, (Asia Minor) Cappadocia is a peculiar carving on the minor face of the dexter-head door post, of a double headed eagle. In each claw is clutched an animal like a hare.

A similar carving was seen at Sasile Kair.

Old Mohammedan traditions give the name of "Hamica" to a fabulous creature which coincides with the bicephalous eagle carved on the rock of Pterium.

Bronze coins with the emblem were struck by Turcoman princes early in the 13th century; the symbol was also emblazoned on the walls of their castles and carried in their battles and figured on their flags. It was brought to Europe by the crusaders and adopted by the German Emperor in preference to the single-headed Roman eagle, from whom it has passed to Russia. Thus a symbol that originally belonged to an Asiatic culture of remote antiquity was imported to Europe; and through a whimsical trick of fortune, the same eagle that had witnessed the triumphal march of the Turks to the banks of the Euphrates and the Bosphorus saw them wrenched back to the Belgrade and Lepanto.

Sculpture, whereby the peculiarities which permit Pterian monuments to be classed in one distinct group, yields richer materials to the student. Many are the characteristic details which distinguished; but of none of these we venture to say, can vie with the double-headed eagle at Tasitic Kais, a type which we feel justified in ranging among those proper to Cappadocia, since it was unknown in Assyria, Egypt or Phoenicia. Its position is always a conspicuous one — about a great sanctuary, the principal door-way of a palace, a castle wall rendering the suggestion that the Pterian used the symbol as a Coat of Arms plausible if not certain. It has been further urged that the city was symbolized by it, that the place was called by the Greeks Pteris, Pleria, Pteron, "wing" was the literal translation of the name it bore with the aborigines, that in a comprehensive sense it came to signify the whole district, the country of wings; that is of numerous eagles, double headed and wings outstretched.

Perrot & Chipiez.

" 189

This information of the double-headed eagle was derived from an article in "Ancienne Revue Archeologique" - 1845, by Longpierrez - upon the then recent discoveries of Texier and Hamilton. It contains a copy of a coin struck by Malek Salah Mahmoud - 1217, also two seals by Adelbert Beaumont, with the double-headed eagle upon them, described as Sassanid, one being a fac-simile of the Eyzuk example.

One coat of arms belonging to the Worth family of England is a double headed eagle.
